LGIAsuper's strong performance is ranked in the top 10 for 2019

LGIAsuper has again been awarded the highest rating in the Australian superannuation industry by research company Chant West, topping off a year of big wins for the Brisbane-based fund. This follows LGIAsuper's MySuper Lifecycle Under 75 investment option achieving a return of 16.1%* for the 2019 calendar year, making Chant West's 'Top 10 performing growth funds for 2019'.

Chant West has also awarded a '5 Apple' rating to both LGIAsuper's Accumulation and Pension accounts, indicating the 'highest quality' based on an assessment of investment performance, member services, fees, insurance and organisational strength.

These ratings are based on extensive research, accumulated not only through data analysis but also from on-site visits to determine how well organisations are managed and operated.

CEO Kate Farrar said the ratings were a ringing endorsement of LGIAsuper's dedication to delivering strong results while always prioritising members.

"These ratings are a testament to LGIAsuper's long-standing trustworthiness, combined with our tested and proven investment strategy," Ms Farrar said.

"We pride ourselves on being member-driven and results-focused because the evidence says that's what produces the best investment outcomes."

LGIAsuper's excellent results have also been acknowledged by SuperRatings, who awarded a 'Platinum' rating on LGIAsuper's Accumulation and Pension products for the 12th year running, and on its MySuper product for the seventh consecutive year. This has highlighted the fund's commitment to delivering reliable and solid investment returns, competitive insurance and a trusted range of products and services to all members.

"These accolades are gratifying, but for us they're validation of our approach and the work that we've done," Ms Farrar said.

"Our focus remains on providing Queenslanders with a secure future by supporting their retirement planning and working hard to ensure a profitable return on their investments."
